PRESENTATION OF THE PROJECT:

The purpose of the "City Cooperation II" project is to enhance the cooperation of 24 countries (8 in Austria, 9 in Slovenia and 7 in Hungary) in the border region of Hungary, Austria and Slovenia within the framework of the V-A Austria-Hungary Cooperation Programme. A specific goal of the project is to create a strong, coherent alliance among the cities in the border area and establish thematic city networks by implementing common activities (e.g. City Branding, city academy, innovative touristic cooperation, strengthening local purchasing power, developing local markets).

Adventure city for children

Children-friendly attractions and certain points of the adventure city route for children are collected in the tourist map.

1. Playground

There are eight different playthings in the playground located in the city centre of Zalalövő including swings, and a train as well as shock absorbers complying with the relevant standards. The facility also has public lighting.

2. Fake grass sports court

This facility offers activities for everyday physical education, mass and competitive sports and also for free time activities mainly useful for school-age children.

3. Multifunctional basketball court

The court is located within the area of the Zalalövő Primary School and used during the school P.E. lessons, trainings and matches. Both students of the school and local citizens can use this modern sports court meeting today's needs.

4. Outdoor sports court and Fitness park

The local government hopes that by creating the open-air fitness park for adults it could contribute to the healthy lifestyle of the locals. The park is free for the locals who live in the town, but it is also a good opportunity for visitors to do some sport.

5. Borostyán pond/beach

Lake Borostyán with a water surface of 35 hectares welcomes bathers with a well established beach and sports facilities at the western border of Zalalövő. There is a football pitch on the beach and kayaks, canoes and boats are available for rent.

6. Country home

The country home is undoubtedly the best known building of the town. The jewel of the village and later the town was built nearly 200 years ago, in the middle of the 19th century. It was rebuilt in 1910 and its smoky kitchen was replaced by a new one with chimney and a furnace in 1914. The former farmhouse was reconstructed in 1976-1977 and now it is a historical building.

7. Salla Museum

Salla from the Roman period is located under the centre of Zalalövő. Salla and Zala county were named after the river called Sala, Salle, a name of Ilyllyr-Celtic origin. Salla received a cityhood from Hadrian in 118 and became the centre of an administrative territory. Archaeological discoveries of the settlement from the Roman times started in 1973 and are still in progress. The title of the permanent exhibition of the Salla exhibition venue in Göcsej Museum is "Zala county in the Roman times".

8. Column of fidelity

The memorial pillar is placed on a surface covered by stones symbolizing Zala valley in a round flower bed. The cobblestones of the ancient roman road found at the archaeological excavations not far from the station has been reconstructed along the symbolic river bank. The script documenting the ceremonial donation of the memorial is on the first element of the pillar.

9. Szentkút

Borosán valley can be found not far from the centre of Zalalövő, in a beautiful beech forest. A sacral heritage site was established after the war around the spring offering high-quality water (that also serves as a water source) as a gratitude that World War II was over.
